

My Truth

By Debra Want

I've always known I was being guided, even as a small child. Even during the times I felt lost & alone, I knew I wasn't.

We are NEVER alone. Angels are ALWAYS with us. It's what they do. And they do this out of love for us and their love for GOD.

Letting go of the dark can be difficult. When it gets a hold on us, it can work it's way in deep and it works hard to keep the light out.

BUT, the light NEVER goes out. It cannot be anything other than light for that is what it is. And the light is always with us, no matter how dark we think or feel it is. The light is GOD and GOD never leaves us, ever – period.

Listen closely to your heart. Truth is there and truth cannot change either. When you listen, if it includes joy then it is truth. If there is no joy then it is not truth but something else. The Ego may be trying to hide the truth. The truth cannot be hidden, but it can be ignored. You have free will. Free will to choose to see the truth or ignore it. Free will to see & feel the light or stay focused on the dark. It's your choice because GOD loves you and wants you to be free.

When I feel joy, tears always come to my eyes. Yet, my heart is so overwhelmed by the warmth & love that joy is. I have these tears because of the immense feeling of love that I know GOD has for me.

How wonderful to be able to feel this way! I thank GOD that I have been blessed with so much love & joy. We have all been given this blessing, not one is left out, it would be impossible to do.

Accept that you are loved. GOD, with the greatest love possible, has given you Angels to watch over you. Angels who are here to help & guide you. Angels who love you for who are no matter what.

Many of you are here to share the light with those who remain focused on the dark. It brings GOD tremendous joy when one helps another back into light focus. It brings GOD love.

You are light.
You are joy.
You are love.

No matter what you think. No matter what you've done. These are truths that cannot be changed.
